Death of Ephraim H. Brown.

Ephraim H. Brown died, Thursday morning, after a long and painful illness. He was born in Massachusetts, Sept. 17, 1818, but came to Norway with his parents, Ephraim and Lucy (Heald) Brown in 1822, and grew up here, residing in town the remainder of his life. He learned the trade of carpenter, working at it for a long time, then operated a foundry at Steep Falls. He later operated a planing and turning mill at Steep Falls, and then went into the grocery business in the "Red" store, also at Steep Falls, which has since been moved away.

In 1852 he commenced to work for the Adventurer, in many branches, both inside and outside the office. For many years he had charge of the subscription department, but for the past three or four years has not been able to do much work owing to failing health.

He enlisted in Company F, 17th Maine Regiment, Aug. 18, 1862, and served through the civil war, being mustered out May 20, 1865. He was town clerk of Norway for twelve years, and served as selectman three years, in both capacities efficiently and with honor. He took much interest in all matters touching the welfare of the town and village.

He was a member of Oxford Lodge, No. 18, F. & A. M., and of Harry Rust Post, No. 54, G. A. R.

He married, October 30, 1843, Silence Jane Landers of Woodstock, who died June 19, 1897. There are two children, Luella Jane, wife of Osmon B. Warren of Rochester, N. H., and Gilbert Julian, of Norway. Mr. Brown leaves also two sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Silcox of Taylor Center, Michigan, and Mrs. Dorcas Adams Sanborn of Lowell, Mass.

A horse hitched to a light wagon owned by Frank Bailey of Norway, Oxford, made things lively on Main street, last Sunday evening. He ran across Bridge street and turned into the road leading to the Elm House stable and around the stable and into the field in the rear where he allowed himself to be caught. No damage was done.

The smoke, which came in thicker than fog Wednesday afternoon and under the sun appear like a small ball of fire, and the moon the same, was wiped away by the fresh south wind Sunday afternoon. After light, fitful showers Monday evening, a good, hearty, healthy rain came that night, laying the dust and freshening up vegetation remarkably. This was the first rainfall for almost eight weeks, and was it welcome?

Taxidermist Nash of Maine has received from the Rickers, Poland Springs, what is truly a freak of nature. It is a magnolia warbler with two heads and bodies joined together at the hip joint. There is one perfect wing on the outside of each body and between the two is an auxiliary wing. When found the bird was in a damaged condition, but the head was all right and did not appear different from a normal bird. Local naturalists say this is the first instance they know of that a freak bird of this nature has lived to any size.

The army was also thoroughly inspected by Capt. Aultman. He was accompanied by Brig-Gen. T. L. Hoyt, inspector general of the state national guard.

There were thirty-one non-commissioned officers, musicians and enlisted men, the commissioned officers of the company, and staff officers Surgeon B. F. Bradbury, hospital steward Charles E. Cragin, and Sergeants A. J. Stearns and Roy Porter.

Following the inspection Brig-Gen. Hoyt gave an explanation of the flag signals and their importance, illustrating the wig-wag with a small flag. This will be the next special feature to be learned by the men. The company was then drilled about a half hour in making evolutions, and dismissed.

The inspection was mainly for the purpose of overhauling the equipment, to see what could be relied upon in case of emergency, and its result was very satisfactory.

Celebration Cancelled.

The Fourth of July celebration is off. After securing the subscriptions and laying all the plans, including appointment of the committees, the general committee have decided to drop the whole matter. The uncertainty as to whether there would be rain before the Fourth of July, and if so, if there would be enough to render it safe to have fireworks and other similar features, and the question as to the probability of outside fire companies coming to Norway, for of course if it is dry at that time no hose team could be allowed to leave their own town, were fully considered.

The plans had reached the point calling for the expenditure of considerable money in advertising, which if the celebration were given up a week or so before the Fourth would be wasted.

Certainly everyone wishes to be upon the side of safety, and the action of the committee unanimously taken was upon the same ground. It is better to be safe than sorry.

Commencement Exercises at the Baptist Church.—Class of Eighteen—Most Interesting Exercises.
The Baptist church was filled, Thursday evening with interested citizens, relatives and friends of the young men and women who terminated their high school course this year. There was a large contingent from Paris Hill, West Paris and other portions of the town.
The church was tastefully decorated in the class colors, royal purple and white. Streamers of these colors were draped overhead, and over the arch of the pulpit the class motto, "Certum Pete Finem," was in white upon a purple panel. The above was draped in white, and at its rear a bank of cedar set off a little fountain throwing a jet of water which trickled on the rocks below. Potted plants completed the display.
The music was by the Young People's orchestra and was very excellent. The underlying theme of all the essays was after all the class motto, "Seek a definite end." The graduating papers were very interesting, of a high grade of literary character and the class parts were original pointed.

DO NOT DOSE THE STOMACH.

Cure Catarrh by Nature's Own Method—Every Breath of Hymel Brings Relief.

Nearly every one who has catarrh knows how foolish it is to try and cure it by dosing the stomach. Temporary relief may be given, but a cure seldom comes.

Until recently your physician would have said the only way to cure catarrh would be to have a change of climate; but now with Hymel you can carry a health giving climate in your vest pocket and by breathing it a few minutes four times a day soon cure yourself.

The complete outfit of Hymel costs but $1.00 and consists of an inhaler that can be carried in the vest pocket, a medicine dropper and a bottle of Hymel. The inhaler lasts a lifetime, and if one bottle does not cure, an extra bottle of Hymel can be obtained for 50 cents. It is the most economical of all remedies advertised for the cure of catarrh, and is the only one that follows nature in her method of treating diseases of the respiratory organs.

Frank Kimball has sold hundreds of Hymel outfits and the more he sells, the more convinced he is that he is perfectly safe in guaranteeing to refund the money if Hymel does not cure.

Commencement, Class of 1903.

Graduating Class of Nineteen Members Take Diplomas.—Most Interesting Exercises and Large Gathering.—Good Music and Happy Faces.—Commencement Ball.

The class of 1903, whose graduating exercises were Thursday evening, was one of the largest classes that have graduated from the High School for several years. One very noticeable fact is that the class comprised more boys than girls, in fact more than twice the number, the number being thirteen and six. The members of the class made a most excellent appearance, their papers were commendably brief and concise, and each one spoke in a clear manner so as to be heard in every part of the hall.

The decorations of the stage were neat and pretty, and unquestionably the most handsome and pretty that have been at any graduation of the school. Festoons and streamers of crepe paper in the class colors of olive green and white decorated the space above and either side of the curtain, above also being "03" and on the sides the motto "Carpe Diem." Many streamers of the olive and white hung from the sides of the stage containing a large electric light above. Ferns and plants were at the rear and at the front corners of the stage.

Every available seat was filled by the friends of the graduates and the citizens of Norway, the usual seating capacity being enlarged by seats along the side walls and extra ones in the rear.

A few moments after eight Stearns' orchestra of twelve men and pianist began playing. Seats upon the platform were immediately taken by Principal Verno M. Whitman, Sub-marshal Percival F. Hathaway, Assistant Janet C. Stephens, superintendent of schools Charles P. Barnes, George E. Tubbs, member of the school committee, and Rev. B. F. Fickett of the Methodist church.

In a few moments the class entered from the rear of the hall under the leadership of Frank C. Palmer and marched to seats at the front.

A second selection by the orchestra was played and following it was prayer by Rev. B. F. Fickett appropriate to the occasion, expressing thanksgiving for the schools, and pleading for blessing upon the schools, the scholars and the graduates. Response by the orchestra.

Frederick Walter Tubbs' essay was the "Industries of Maine." Success is due only by labor and study. This is true of both high and low, rich and poor.

As contrasting the westward trend the speaker showed the great possibilities of Maine, Agriculture—The fields of Aroostook have no superior in the country. Granite—this product of our state is sought throughout the land. The lime kilns of Rockland and similar towns are mines of wealth. Ship building again is on the increase, and fisheries and manufacturing are sources of great profit. No better opportunity anywhere than in Maine for a frugal, honest, prudent, industrious laboring man.

An orchestral selection then rendered, after which Henry Osmond Harriman told "How and what to Read." In every profession it seems as though there were more men than necessary to fill them. More men than there are chances to work. In order to succeed there must be an understanding of the principles of success. The prophecy of the future is the history of the past. Every man needs to know current events as told in the newspapers and current thought as in the magazines. The three ways of getting information are experience, conversation and reading. It is better to read a little and understand it, than not to understand a great deal. The most important book is the Bible. The destruction of St. Pierre was the theme of Irving Leslie Pike's essay. May 8, 1902, was graphically told, and the scientific reasons for its cause set forth. With all its horrors it called for great manifestations of human aid and human sympathy which were freely and nobly given, both by individuals and the United States government.

Helen Hight Holmes began her essay on "Lost Opportunities" with the quotation beginning "Lost, somewhere between dawn and dusk, a great deal of hours," and the theme was the loss of time. The most precious hours are those of youth, and are those most frequently wasted. Success has come to those who turn the smallest portion of time to account. There is a great depreciation in the value of time used, caused by the wasting of time put to no good use.

The story of many a life is of good intentions, good preparations, good material, good opportunities, but nothing done, containing no usefulness and giving no uplift.

Leroy D. Keene spoke of "The Triumphs of Electrical Discoveries and Inventions." The history of the discovery and application of electrical laws is very obscure. Its development has been in very recent years. The life and work of Edison was told, and his successful patents of 400 in number were briefly sketched. Marconi's wireless telegraphy appears to be the discovery with the greatest possibilities within it, and the next few years will see marvelous results.

Frank Colby Palmer was class historian. The history began in the old academy building. The class greatly changed only to be those who have gone continuously from the first to the present in this class. Freshman year the class was twenty-five. There have been many drop out and new ones have come in. There have been many social features in senior year. The class has stood very high in athletics, especially on the ball field this year. Though the class have looked forward with anticipation for graduation day, there is now a sadness as the class separate, perhaps not all to meet again.

Frederick Robie Penley gave a history of "Our Navy," beginning with the Revolutionary era, the troubles with the Barbary States, the war of 1812 and the Civil War. To-day, though not large, the navy is efficient. In times of peace the service of the navy has been great in the marking of dangerous reefs and shoals, also in the Polar surveys and in scientific research.

Lucia Ella Buck told of a dream in which she saw "The Hill of Science," a great mountain up which young men and women were toiling. Every one gained showed but new points to climb. At the top was the temple of truth. The genius made rapid strides and then stopped, being surpassed by the patient plodder who went steadily on. The muses of pleasure and passion sought to hinder and hinder did the climber, but the greatest check was indolence, from whose wiles the one-time victim could never escape.

Walter Richardson Fogg gave the history of "Libraries." The earliest ones were in Babylon and Assyria, and later in Egypt. Libraries were not established until late in Rome, but century before the empire's decay and fall, Charlemagne established great libraries, which later were scattered. The middle ages saw but few libraries but with the revival of learning libraries became more common. The first libraries were religious, and those at the seats of learning, and the great ones to day are mostly at the schools and colleges. England, Germany, France and the United States lead in the possession of libraries. One of the most handsome and best is the library of Congress in Washington.

Carl Wellington Boynton was the class prophet. His method was through astrology, and he read the horoscopes of character and destiny of the class members. Miss Holmes is sensible and artistic. She is to be a milliner. Flood is reverent. He would be a missionary to Salt Lake City. Harriman is energetic. After graduation at Shaw's business college he will be successful as a spruce gun merchant. Miss McCollis is earnest and sincere. She is to travel extensively through Europe and America. Gilbert is emotional and likes a sensation. He is to be an author and publish a most successful book. Pike is also emotional. He is to be a professional ball player. Miss Frost is ambitious and trustworthy. After years of service as a teacher, she will be matron of the Old Ladies' Home. Fogg is a lover of the beautiful. After years of traveling as a salesman for a New York house, he will train as a dressmaker and become the Worth of America. Palmer will teach mathematics in Norway High school and later become principal of the Sodom academy. Miss Millett is practical. She will marry and his name will be given. Brown is emotional. He will be a farmer for years, then become an artist, painting a world renowned picture for the Norway art gallery. Miss Shank is ambitious. She will study medicine, then have a sanitarium on Pike's hill for cats. Keene is lovable. He will invent an electric machine for sawing and splitting wood. Tubbs is vivacious. He will study music and be the author of many popular ballads and songs. Miss Buis is sensible and thoughtful. She will be a famous temperance lecturer. Penley is sympathetic. He will become a chiropodist. Swift is a mechanical expert. He will graduate from the University of Maine, and take the class to a reunion in 2003 to visit Florida in Salt Lake City.

Porter Leforest Swift spoke upon the "Ignored Patriot." Robert Morris, whose patriotism was shown by his furnishing the continental army with money through the crises of the Revolution, and put the finances of the government on a firm basis in the years following and after the adoption of the Constitution. A wealthy man before the Revolution, he unfortunately lost his money and died in a poor debtor's cell in 1806.

Harriet Willis Millett spoke of "The Study and Benefit of Birds." She is an earnest lover of birds. It is an interesting and pleasant study, which repays all the effort put into it. The fields, hedges and orchards are places to see the birds and the time is the early morning and toward evening. The most pleasant way is to sit and wait for them to appear, use a glass to see them more distinctly. Keep dated list of their appearance. Their great service is in destroying the numerous insect pests that annoy the farmers. It would be a cheerless nature without the birds.

The presentation of gifts was by Edward Nye Gilbert, who with remarks showing the fitness of the gifts made the following presents. Miss Millett, a box with several strings. Harriman, shears and a comb. Tubbs, razor. Miss McCollis, stuffed squirrel. Brown, a hoe. Miss Buck, a bell. Swift, a joke book and package of tacks. Flood, a trumpet. Penley, a cane. Miss Holmes, a spoon. Boynton, telescope. Keene, sofa pillow. Pike, base ball. Miss Frost, whetstone. Fogg, pencil and block of paper. Palmer, a fan. Miss Shank, a counting frame.

Lena Shank was valedictorian. This night marks the close and the commencement of life. We close the school days, but the world is open to us. There is a steady dawn and a constant young men and women who will take advantage of opportunities. We look to the future, and now glance back to the past. There are three salutations of parting. Good-by, adieu, farewell. Teachers, friends, farewell. Classmates, farewell. Be strong and steadfast, for in due season we shall reap if we faint not.

Charles Haskell Danforth was excused on account of his mother's recent death. There was no class poem or ode.

The diplomas were awarded by Superintendent Charles P. Barnes. He then with a brief address awarded the gift which is made yearly by Don C. Setts of the New York World of $25 in gold to the student who for the whole four years has maintained the highest rank. Lena Shank was the recipient. Mr. Barnes made then a few remarks to the class, the underlying thought being the value of character.

The music furnished by the orchestra was most excellent, and won ecniums from every one.

Commencement Ball. There was a goodly gathering of the graduates and their friends, Friday evening to the commencement ball. Bright and happy faces and merry music made the occasion a most enjoyable one, and the order of dances gone through gave every opportunity for sociability and pleasure.

The gallery was nearly filled with spectators, while upon the floor were about sixty couples. These included beside the graduates, under graduates and friends, a goodly number from Paris high school and some from surrounding towns. The order comprised fourteen dances, and Stearns' orchestra furnished the music.

A Warning. To feel tired after exertion is one thing; to feel tired before is another. Don't say the latter is laziness—it isn't; but it's a sign that the system lacks vitality, is running down, and needs the tonic effect of Hood's Sarsaparilla. It's a warning, too, and sufferers should begin taking Hood's at once. Buy a bottle to-day.

Ira M. Beare of Hebron was one of the Junior prize speakers at U. of M., Orono, Saturday evening; topic, "Restriction of Immigration."

Saturday morning, the down freight on the Portland and Rumford Falls railroad, left the rails about a mile below Mechanic Falls and seven cars were off the track. Some of the cars were loaded with paper. Cars that were lighter than the others were thrown 10 or 15 feet from the rails. It is thought that the accident was caused by a broken brake beam. A wrecking train was sent from Rumford to clear the debris. No one was injured.

The Gamey Togue.

For many years the leading fish which our local fishermen have pursued have been the great trout which inhabit Lake Thompson and one of the Range ponds and known by the name of togue. Of late land-locked salmon and other kinds have become a consideration, as local waters have been stocked with these foreigners, but the togue is a native.

This fish being a native, many people have wondered that it is not universally found in all inland Maine waters. Some have thought this was so because it was a deep water fish; but this is dispelled by the fact that they are sometimes found in shallow bodies of water. Although the Range ponds are all connected toge are only found in the Middle Range, and this peculiarity is noted all over the state.

This fish was first described by Dr. Augustus C. Hamlin of Bangor about half a century ago. Dr. Hamlin is a well known naturalist, and quite well known in this vicinity, as he is president of the Mt. Mexico tourmaline mine at Paris. He gave the scientific name to the togue, or tuladi as it is sometimes called, Salmo Tomia, after a noted Passamaquoddy Indian, Peol Tomia.

How large may a togue grow? Those caught in Range and Thompson ponds range from one to four pounds but occasionally one is caught larger than that. A few years ago one was caught in the Middle Range that weighed between 8 and 9 pounds. The largest togue ever known to have been caught was in the Grand Schoodic lake about 20 years ago by two Frenchmen from Bangor. It was sent to W. T. Adams of Boston, better known as Oliver Optic, the writer for the young, and weighed 33 pounds.

The togue is a very voracious eater one caught by Gen. Lookman of New York a few years ago had 115 small fish in its stomach that he must have eaten within 12 hours of the time he was caught.

Dr. Hamlin, 3 years ago in Moosehead lake, saw several large togues sunning themselves near the surface of the water, so near that their dorsal fin projected out of the water. This was something new to Dr. Hamlin as they are generally hid in the dark depths of lakes. On consulting local fishermen, the Ledger man was informed that they were frequently seen thus sunning themselves in Range and Thompson ponds in early spring and late fall.—[Mechanic Falls Ledger.]

Mrs. Hannah Bridge.
Mrs. Hannah (Gammon) Bridge, wife of Oliver C. Bridge of Mechanic Falls, died at 12.30 p. m., Wednesday, June 3, after an illness of three months of disease of the brain. She was a most estimable woman and had many friends in Mechanic Falls and in Skowhegan, where she formerly lived. She leaves a husband and two children, Edward W. and Charlotte C. Bridge; also one sister, Mrs. Edna M. Blake of Lowell, Mass., three brothers, Horatio H. Gammon of Portland, E. Adron Gammon of Mechanic Falls and Dr. Nathaniel Gammon of Lynn, Mass.

She was born in Hartford, June 28, 1851. The funeral services were held at the house on East Park street, Friday, June 5, at 1 p. m., Rev. F. E. Barton officiating.

WEST SUMMER.
Memorial Day was observed as follows: At 11 a. m., dinner for G. A. R. and W. R. C.; at 1 p. m., the following program was given at the Baptist church:

Reading, The Nation's Love: Will Carleton.....

Address..... W. S. Robinson
Autumn..... Choir

The church was crowded, all showing much interest in the work. The address was most excellent. At first, reference was made to the days of '61-'65, and local G. A. R. eulogized; then a half-hour on some leading questions of the day. The list of march to the cemetery was: Post, Corps, seventy-five school children, many citizens. Fitting exercises were held there. The church was beautifully decorated. Many thanks are due to Mrs. Packard, who assisted the Post and Corps so much in decorating, and to Mrs. Heath for so many beautiful plants. The very large attendance proves old Summer ever loyal and patriotic.

Memorial day, a horse driven by Henry Brown of Hartford took fright at a shifter. Mr. Brown got out of the team and took the horse by the bridle. The horse dragged him several rods, finally knocking him down and the wagon passed over him. The horse was stopped at the toll bridge. Neither Mr. Brown nor the team was injured.

Fortune Awaits Hairdresser.

A fortune probably awaits the woman who will go into business as an artistic hairdresser. A woman's appearance depends more upon the arrangement of her hair than upon almost anything else, yet there is nothing about which most of the average woman knows less, and most of the sex are absolutely disgraced by the style of their coiffure. When a style of hairdressing that happens to be becoming is in vogue it is surprising how many handsome women suddenly appear on the scene, and then immediately vanish. These women are quite unaware apparently of this startling change in their appearance, and whether beauty or ugliness results from their methods of hairdressing is entirely a matter of chance. The artistic hairdresser might be able to follow the mode more gracefully and it might be worth her while to teach women how to do their hair as well as to do it for them.

Dr. Hamlin will be remembered as being a graduate from Bridgton Academy of the class of '89 and from Bowdoin Medical School in 1893. Soon after he went to Massachusetts, where he settled in Millis, practicing medicine there for three years. He married Mildred Leach, daughter of Millis and moved to Medway, Mass., where he has resided since, having a wide practice, being a very skillful physician and surgeon for one so young in years, being 34 years, 10 months and 2 days.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

The much regretted passing of the Boston Museum is made the occasion of an admirably illustrated article by the dramatic critic, Howard M. Old time foot-light favorites are shown in pictures taken, approximately, at the time of their first appearance at this historic house.

Nothing Like Fancy Strains.
Perhaps a few hen notes may be instructive. It was this way—I bought some fancy hens, said to be but one year old, Buff Leghorns. By inquiring and the birds at precisely 10 o'clock the organ sounded forth Lohengrin's Bridal March and Miss Ripley waited for the altar where the bridegroom awaited her. She was dressed in white, wore a bridal veil and carried tea roses and ferns. The bride couple stood in the arch of the doorway which was tastefully decorated in greens and white pinks with a bow of white ribbon at the center. Rev. Stanford Mitchell of Rumford Falls performed the ceremony which was a double ring service.

Then followed congratulations. Ice cream and cake were served. At 12, the bride couple started on their wedding trip to New York. They plan to be away two weeks.

Dr. Leslie has been in Andover about two years where he has gained an extensive practice. He is a graduate of Bowdoin Medical college and has served in the hospitals in different cities. His classmate, Dr. Wheeler of West Paris, was present with his wife.

Mr. Ripley has enlarged and improved his house during the last three months. The parlor has been enlarged, having new windows and new furnishings. A corner fire-place from the Philadelphia & Boston Place Brick and Fire-place Co., adds greatly to the attractiveness of the room which was decorated with potted plants, flowers and ferns. The hall extends through the main part of the house. At the left is a reception room and library fitted up handsomely for the doctor's waiting room. Leading from this is his office which had extra windows put in and fitted up in first-class style. The doctor has an operating table made by Mr. Ripley which is complete in all its appointments, cabinets for medicines, etc. Across the hall is the sitting room, enlarged, handsome new windows, a hard wood floor and new furnishings. From this room you enter into the parlor through double doors.

The couple left in a shower of rice and the usual paraphernalia attending a wedding. There were many beautiful presents.
